Foreword...

Chicago Teachers College is the oldest institution of higher learning in Chicago. Graduates have made significant contributions to education over the years. We have chosen the eighty-fifth anniversary of the College as a theme for this yearbook to help us evaluate the future of the College in terms of its past development and achievement.

What are those small buildings to the rear?

A view of the original College building built in 1869.

Beginning In 1869 . . .

Chicago Teachers College celebrated its eighty-fifth birthday on September 22, 1954. From its beginning in 1869, the name of the college has changed several times — Cook County Normal School, Chicago Normal School, Chicago Normal College, and finally Chicago Teachers College.

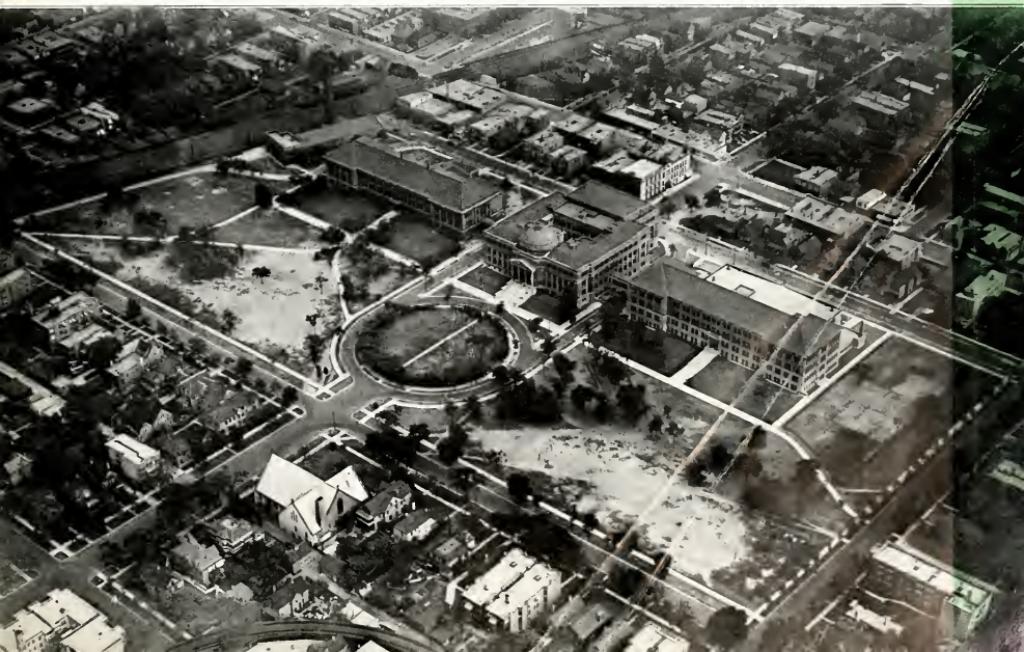

Twenty acres of land were given to the institution in 1869 with the condition that the teacher training institution never be moved.

Daniel Wentworth, for whom the neighboring street was named, guided the school from its inception until 1882. The following year Colonel Frances Wayland Parker, father of progressive education, took over and succeeded in making this training school superior among institutions of its type.

In 1905 the College moved into the present building with a new head, Ella Flagg Young. She later became Superintendent of Schools.

Many innovations have occurred on campus in the last few years. The addition of Business Education, Industrial Education, a Materials Center, and expanded graduate program, a North Side Campus, and a nature camp summer school, are but a few of the newer features.

All of this grew from an institution whose first eight weeks of activity were confined to the limits of a boxcar more than eighty-five years ago — what will the future hold?

We dedicate this book to the following members of the faculty who have made distinguished contributions to the proud history of the College: Edward C. Colin, Mary E. Freeman, Beals E. French, Joseph Kripner, and Earl E. Sheriff. Each has pursued different interests but in doing so, all have worked toward the common goal of preparing teachers.

Administration

Message to the Graduates

During your time in college, both faculty and students have assumed new and numerous functions of leadership. This is as it should be, and I enjoy my role of interested and amazed spectator as the school progresses before me.

And progress it does. We grow in size; already approved is an enrollment goal to be attained within a few short years of five times the size of the school in 1948. Already in sight is a faculty with five times the number of doctorates held seven years ago. Already within our grasp is a diversified program of training both elementary and high school teachers. Already achieved is a forty-eight week school year for all who wish to take advantage of it.

All these things are important only if we keep our level of accomplishment high. And this we have also done. By any reasonable standard of comparison with other teacher training institutions, Chicago Teachers College is in all phases of its program adequate, in most phases excellent, in many phases superior. I particularly cherish a letter in my files from Dr. Charles W. Hunt, who was for twenty-five years secretary-treasurer of the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education, and who knows the extraordinary vicissitudes of this remarkable College in intimate detail. He said, "You have united the forces which should make the Chicago Teachers College one of the really great institutions of this country." . . .

It's our avowed purpose to make Dr. Hunt's prediction come true. We can have no hope of success without more wonderful students such as you have been. We can have no hope of gaining our rightful reputation without wonderful alumni such as I am sure you will be. Go forth and help gain for us the lofty reputation our school deserves.

Good fortune and congratulations to you all!

Office of Examinations

Louise Tyler, director of examinations, watches Janet Hatfield operate electronic test grader.

The Office of Examinations administers the freshman and junior guidance tests. Records of test results are filed in this office and made available to the students upon request for counseling purposes.

The Director compiles statistical data covering the student body as a whole and by classes. Periodic reports of these results are made available to the faculty.

Mary Franchino uses computer to obtain testing statistics.

Office of Publications

The Director of Publications edits the General Catalog and serves as managing editor of the Chicago Schools Journal. Raymond M. Cook, dean (not pictured) is Editor of the Journal.

Louis Jacobs (not pictured) was managing editor of the Journal for ten years. She left the position in January to return to teaching.

The Chicago Schools Journal, a periodical published primarily for the principals and teachers of the Chicago Public Schools by the Board of Education, is edited at the College. It is sent out to all teachers in the system free of charge during the school year. About 4,000 additional copies are sent to educators throughout the world.

Student Counseling

Clara Berghofer, counselor, has a conference with a student. Individual conferences are an integral part of the general program of guidance. Information gained through appraisal of students' capacities and abilities as revealed by standardized psychological and subject matter tests is used at these conferences.

Individual booths are provided for students who wish to preview filmstrips or films.

Philip Lewis (A.V. advisor) gives a lecture on the mechanics of the film projector and the difference between silent and sound film.

A section of the audio-visual room contains phonograph machines where students may enjoy listening to their favorite records.

Each student is required to master the operational techniques of the various makes of tape recorders.

Teacher-made posters are one of the most practical and inexpensive audio-visual aids used in the classroom.

Audio-Visual Center

The audio-visual center is of great importance to future teachers. Here the student learns how to operate the various machines used in the elementary school.

All students, during their senior year, are required to devote one hour a week to learning the mechanics and operational techniques of these various machines.

During the pre-practice and practice-teaching semesters, the audio-visual center provides the student teachers with films and filmstrips which correlate with their teaching units.

Activities

The Co-Ed Lounge in the Arts Building is a place where students may go during their nonscheduled hours.

According to the psychology department, "All work and no play makes for a very dull day," or "All work and no break ever kept anyone awake." For this reason the students' schedules are arranged in a deliberate manner so as to allow them to have a free hour or two during the day for relaxation. During these free hours, the students may participate in the many activities offered by the various organizations in the college, or they may seek refuge in one of the lounges where they may rest, study, listen to music or converse with their friends.

College Celebrates 85th Birthday Today

A view of the original College building built in 1869.

CTC's Ancestry Goes Back To County Normal Days

It is in this college that the first community of Chicago Teachers College, founded in 1869, the College which today furnishes teachers mostly for Chicago nevertheless traces its name to an official parent the Cook County Normal School.

A culmination of the ultimate merger of the Chicago Teachers Training Association and the Cook County Normal School, founded in 1869, the College which today furnishes teachers mostly for Chicago nevertheless traces its name to an official parent the Cook County Normal School.

Chicago Teachers College celebrates its 85th birthday today. Founded September 22, 1869, it has been a training institution for generations of local teachers.

However, the name of the college has been changed several times.

It was first the Cook County Normal School in 1869, Chicago Normal School in 1876, Chicago Normal Institute in 1882, Chicago Normal College in 1893 and again Chicago Teachers College in 1904.

Theater Workshop began casting last week for Lilac, the first planned TW production of the season.

Written by Milner Lillien, the script is based on the musical Music in the Moonlight by the musical Personnel is based.

According to R. J. Walker, TW director, the play is a comedy drama affording opportunity for extremely interesting characters, many sets and will require a capable cast to make it a success.

Although many students TW have been cast, the cast will be spotlighted this semester. TW President Carol Johnson assured all that students, though they may have a chance to star in the forthcoming play, will be given a chance to star in the forthcoming play.

Additional tryouts will be held today and tomorrow from 2 to 5 p.m. and the final tryouts for the cast will be announced after final auditions.

TW is also making tentative plans for another show to be done in the fall, but the date and the director of Holdings which was performed in the spring are not yet set. The students will be given a chance to star in the forthcoming play.

An emergency session of the Student Council has been scheduled for this Friday, September 24, at 1:00 P.M. in room 204 by council president Edith Walker.

The purpose of the election of delegates to the Student Council on Thursday September 30 will be the choice of a new president.

The election of the student council will report on her work and will be followed by a general discussion of the new constitution.

All delegates to the Student Council are required to attend the meeting. The election is scheduled, stated Miss Wetland.

Students will be asked to elect a president of the student council to the officers of the school.

The power from the city traffic department to regulate traffic in the school grounds will be taken from the officers of the school.

The present parking congestion around CTC's new elementary school has created both traffic and safety problems for the students and the faculty.

President Wetland has called a meeting of the faculty and students in an effort to alleviate the space in the college parking lot.

At the meeting, the faculty and the students will be asked to present their suggestions.

President Wetland and Student Council delegates will be present at the meeting.

The Council will decide the date at the election Tuesday, September 28, at 10:00 A.M. in room 204.

The election will be held September 30.

Miss Isabel Kincheloe of the English department will advise in the election of the new president. Vocation of the art department is the new art adviser.

Students will be asked to elect a new president.

The committee members, Misses Mary Cule, Lorrie De Bruin, Mrs. Helen Denslow, Dorothy Sauer and Dr. Verne H. Johnson, and Mrs. Helen Purwell, are working to plan a variety of activities for the faculty.

The faculty and the students will be an encyclopedic affair. The committee members are working to plan activities for the rest of the year.

Yearbook Staff Organizes Today

An emergency session is scheduled for 1 p.m. today.

All students interested in working on the 1955 yearbook are urged to attend.

Students will be asked to choose the student editor and the yearbook manager.

The yearbook will be enlarged to the current standard size of 11 x 14 inches.

It will be 50 cents if it has been for some time. According to Dr. Philip Lewis, the editor of the yearbook, 1955 should be better than ever.

Miss Isabel Kincheloe of the English department will advise in the election of the new president.

Vocation of the art department is the new art adviser.

Students will be asked to elect a new president.

Examining the product of a great many hours of toil are Peter Zansits, editor in chief, September to January; Joan Pierce, and Alvin Platt, editor in chief, January to June.

Tempo

In September for the first time in twelve years, TEMPO began publishing a newspaper weekly, a great jump from the former bi-monthly schedule.

In a nation-wide critical survey for the first semester TEMPO won first class standing in competition with many other large college and university newspapers. The rating for the second semester was not available at deadline time.

Among the activities sponsored by TEMPO during the year were the biannual outings to White Pines State Park and Jackson Park Promontory. An overnight trip to Camp Sagawau was the main event of October. A theatre party to Goodman Theatre was scheduled in March. The traditional biannual banquets were held at Kungsholm and London House restaurants.

The Theatre Workshop productions of the 1954-1955 season were Liliom, a romantic drama by Ferenc Molnar, and Charley's Aunt, a comedy by Brandon Thomas. The group also sponsored several theatre parties to current local stage productions.

Social and academic integration are important to the future teacher. The Theatre Workshop of Chicago Teachers College embodies just such an integral part of a student's education. Public speaking, production organization, stagecraft, costuming, makeup and other theatics are all of great value to a teacher who is now training for the modern trends in education where dynamic activities are advocated for effective learning.

Theatre Workshop

Theatrical productions at Chicago Teachers College date back to the early 1900's. Musical productions and all types of drama have been given by a variety of groups throughout the years. Within the last 20 years a more formal group called Theatre Workshop has handled these productions. Robert J. Walker has been the sponsor of Theatre Workshop for the past four years.

Choir

Chorale groups have been active at Chicago Teachers College since the school was founded in 1869. These groups have helped to fulfill the needs of self-expression for the future teacher.

For many years the choir sang annually for Christmas programs and commencement exercises. Since the arrival of Leonard Simutis, the choir sponsor five years ago, the choir has increased the number of performances it gives per year. Some of the performances in the last five years include Guan Carlo Menotti's The Telephone and The Medium.

During the 1954-1955 season the choir gave their annual Christmas program and sang for both commencement exercises. They also sang for the National Elementary School Principal's Convention at the Sherman Hotel. The midwest premier of Leonard Bernstein's Trouble in Tahiti was given on June 4th and was labeled as a smashing success.

The choir membership varies from 90 to 110 students. A student receives one credit hour a semester for active participation.

Homecoming

Homecoming, the highlight of the basketball season, is one of the most festive programs arranged by the Student Council. Each year the alumni are invited to CTC to challenge our basketball team.

During half-time, student-made floats circle the gym in Mardi Gras fashion. The floats are judged and prizes given to the most original ones.

The procession of candidates for queen follow the basketball game, at which time the name of the queen-elect is announced.

Following the crowning of the queen is the annual Homecoming dance which terminates this gay occasion.

Colonels 1955 Baseball Team

The Colonels' 1955 baseball campaign started early in April. Coach George Boyle had only three weeks between the close of basketball season and the beginning of baseball to mold a team from almost all new men. Only three veterans returned from last year's squad.

Swimming — Plain and Fancy

Swimming has long been a favorite activity of many students at CTC. Various swimming experiences are provided at all levels of ability so that students can progress from the non-swimmers stage through A.R.C. Beginners, Intermediate, Swimmers, Life Saving phases. For the more versatile swimmers the synchronized swimming club known as the Tritons holds a real challenge.

The Tritons first came into being in the 1930's under the inspirational teaching and guidance of Mrs. Katharine Curtis, who has done much to further the development of synchronized swimming in the United States as well as abroad.

The group reorganized in 1949 and has since had three very successful water productions, "Round the Town," "Who's There?" and "Platter Chatter."

Gymnastic—Social

Physical education courses are designed to include a wide area of gym activities from apparatus work to square dancing. Every student, no matter what his minor may be, is prepared to direct physical education classes. However, all PE minors are exposed to extensive courses in skills and methods in physical education.

The Men's and Women's Athletic Associations provide an opportunity for every student to perfect skills learned in gym classes. Extra curricular activities offered by WAA include bowling, tennis, volleyball, baseball, modern dance, and recreational swimming.

MAA offers intramural competition in basketball, swimming, baseball and table tennis.

and Serious

Vivacious, vibrant, vigorous describes the coeds who cheer the Colonels to victory.

Organized in 1937, the cheerleaders provide the vital spark at basketball games. Their enthusiasm can be as instrumental to a win or loss as the players themselves.

The cheerleaders agree that CTC fans are enthusiastic spectators. Strange as it may seem, they are more vociferous when the team is behind than when they are winning.
